

EXPERT LEANS TO PORTVILLE PLAN

OPINION OF C. F. HARRIS, OF WESTINGHOUSE COMPANY, READ AT CONOPS CLUB—PLANNED CANVASS OF VOTERS.

Setting forth in complete detail the expense necessary to electrify Smethport by the two different methods under consideration, the opinion and data of an electrical expert was made public at the meeting of the Conopus Club, Wednesday, June 1.

The information was prepared by C. F. Harris of the power division of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company, Pittsburgh, and sent to J. Clayton Backus.

Mr. Harris covered every point, it seems, even to costs of wire, bolts, digging, poles, rights of way, etc. He apparently favored the plan of buying power from Portville to that of erecting a local plant, which has hitherto been considered the most feasible by many local persons.

The most important features of the prepared data follows:

Smethport, Pa.

Attention Mr. J. Clayton Backus:

We are submitting herewith data relative to costs of equipment for a power plant at Smethport, Pa. We wish to call attention to the fact that the costs submitted are for estimating purposes only and we feel they are conservative from every standpoint.

We have estimated the cost of equipment necessary to supply Smethport with electricity by transmission lines. We have also estimated the cost of equipment necessary to supply electricity by gas engines.

On page five of the data submitted, you will note the costs of the prospective plants are:

$67,911.00 for transmission.

$60,751.00 for gas engines.

On page six you will note the cost per KW hour, when produced by gas is $0.0585.

On page seven you will note the cost per KW hour by transmission is $0.0455.

This represents a difference in cost per KW hour of $0.122 in favor of the transmission line. These costs refer to costs at the switchboard in each case.

On the basis of our estimate of costs you will note the transmission cost exceeds the gas engine equipment cost by approximately $7,000. There are so many advantages offered in favor of the transmission system, however, that the initial cost is out-balanced by the advantages offered. In case a gas engine plant is installed, you will appreciate that it is entirely a local proposition. By this is meant, there is absolutely no

TWO NEW BUILDINGS WILL SOON OPEN

Main Street Improvements Will Create More Businesslike Aspect.

West Main street will soon assume an even more businesslike attitude with the opening of the new Hamlin Bank building on the southeast corner of Fulton and Main streets and the new tailor shop of Mr. John Karlen across the street from his present location.

The new bank's exterior will be built in Indiana limestone and brick. The building will likely be ready for occupancy about the first or middle part of September.

The burglar alarm system will rank among the best of the institutions in this section. During the day a series of buttons placed at many points in the building will be connected to an alarm, so that if robbers entered any one of the working force could sound the alarm by using a foot, unnoticed by the burglars.

At night a net work of fine wires running all through the hydro-crete walls and steel vault door will be sensitive to drill or explosion. If thieves attempted to get to the funds in any way they would immediately cause an immense bell on the roof to ring. Or if the intruders sought to put the bell out of commission first, the slightest tampering would start its alarm.

The new Karlen shop will give its owner about 100 square feet more than he has at present. He states that as soon as he gets properly settled in his new location he expects to purchase additional machinery which will greatly facilitate his work. The front will be painted so as to set off the glass front.

TO OPEN MONDAY

The Mountain Swiss Cheese Company will open Monday, on Water street. It is the plant of the old Nunundah Creamery Company.

Mr. Fred Sanchi, who will operate the plant is an expert, having spent many years at the business.

Court opens next week. Derricks and several others of great importance are on the calendar.

LOCAL OIL MEN HIT BY PRICE REDUCTION

Judge Bouton Says Producers Cannot Operate at Profit at $3

Oil drilling throughout the county will be at a standstill and scores of workmen will be idle next week, following the reduction in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil to $3. This is the declaration by local concerns who say that they cannot operate at a profit with the price at that figure.

About three hundred wells owned by Hon. Lewis Emery, Jr., of Bradford, are already closed, it is said. These are located at Alkén, Davis, Miners, Bradford and vicinity.

Judge J. W. Bouton has stated that the reduction came as a surprise and that it is to be of profit to producers a price of $5 would be a reasonable figure. Last January the peak price was $6.10, in April it had dropped to $3, but the producers were sure that the price would go higher and continued operations. Later, it rose and fluctuated until the drop of a few days ago.

Now the producers are aware that the refiners are well stocked with oil and feel that the only way to force the price to a profitable basis is to close down.

Speaking of the situation, Judge Bouton stated: "I see nothing to do but to close down, which I expect to do next week. That, I feel will be the action of the other producers in this section. A price of $5 for our crude oil is necessary to a fair profit."

A. J. Hyatt, well known local oil man, stated: "The storage tanks of practically all the refiners hereabouts are full, and they are at a loss to know where to put the oil that is being produced. Therefore, it seems that no relief from the present situation will be had until the general business condition of the country regains normalcy."

"There are 58 storage tanks at Colegrove all filled, and 353 at Olean with all filled but one, which has but a few feet of space. The refiners are telling the producers to hold on, but that seems to be rather ill-timed advice."

SMETHPORT WOMAN RETURNS HOME FROM DENVER, COLO.

Glad to get back to Smethport after an absence of nearly two years, Mrs. Mary B. Wallace is back to her old home at 217 West Main street.

Mrs. Wallace was called to Denver, Colorado, when her son-in-law, John D. Frehriches, was fatally stricken. Following his death she remained with her daughter in the western city.

One of the things which she observed on her trip east was that all the flowers and fruits of this section were further advanced toward maturity by about 2 weeks than in the west.

Mrs. Wallace will soon move to 205 East Main street.

"Hen Lays Eggs in Rocking Chair," says a news item. Trying to play a trick on someone, we suppose.

HEWITT—WRIGHT

The marriage of Miss Victoria Hewitt, of New York city, and Mr. Preston Tarquher Wright took place in Baltimore, Md., on May 28, at old Saint Paul's Church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur B. Kinsolving.

After an extended honeymoon trip, they will visit Mrs. Wright's mother, Mrs. John Hewitt, of Smethport. Later, they will reside in Baltimore where Mr. Wright will engage in civil engineering.

Mrs. Wright is a well-known lecturer and traveler, having visited many foreign lands. She is a member of the alumnae of the New York University woman's law class, and is an active member of other organizations in New York.

IRISH RELIEF FUND WELL BACKED BY SMETHPORT

Smethport is heartily rallying to the aid of stricken Ireland, $442 being already contributed here to the Irish Relief Fund.

The local committee, composed of T. F. Hungville, C. W. Shattuck and M. S. Geary, reports itself greatly pleased with the progress that is being made, and states that the list of contributors is growing rapidly.

The total amount is almost sure to go over $500, it is said.

Rev. Father P. J. Donohue, of St. Elizabeth Church made another ringing appeal to every Smethport person to donate to the Irish Relief fund in his sermon last Sunday.

He made it plain that those of all faiths in Ireland were undergoing suffering as well as the Catholics, and that consequently those of every denomination in America should back the movement. He also cited an instance where in Bradford, last week, a Jewish rabbi made an address exhorting contributions to the fund.

"God loves the Irish," said the priest. "If he did not, how could they keep up the fight so long? What would this great America of ours be if it were not for the Irish immigrants who came here because they were forced to? Their record all through our history is an honor to the race."

Those who have contributed thus far are as follows:

Rev. P. J. Donohue, $25.00; Mr. and Mrs. Guncheon, $50.00; Mrs. C. W. Shattuck, $25.00; M. S. Geary, $10.00; Charles McKean, $25.00; W. H. WAR ROMANCE CULMINATES IN RICE AND WEDDING BELLS

A war romance that began six months before the principals met and which might not have ever existed had it not been for the loneliness of a soldier at Camp Devens, Massachusetts, culminated most happily in Smethport Wednesday, June 1.

The ceremony took place at Saint Elizabeth's Catholic Church when at nuptial high mass Miss Margaret Frances Hungville, of Smethport, became the bride of Paul Frederick Hillery, of Cambridge, Massachusetts. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Hungville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael F. Hillery.

Rev. P. J. Donohue performed the service.

Mr. Hillery was a first class sergeant in the army, and served 26 months. One day at the camp post office he and a friend were handed a card issued by the "Kabin of Kindness," and both soldiers placed their names upon it. Fate decreed that it should find its way to a lady in Smethport, who after writing to the men, as was the custom during the war period, gave Miss Hungville the names. She also wrote to Mr. Hillery, and the romance began.

That was in April, 1918. About six months later Mr. Hillery accepted an invitation to come to Smethport, and then the couple met.

When married the bride wore a Navy blue tulle suit, with a hat to match, and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Gertrude R. Giegerich, of Warren, wore a dark blue suit, and carried sweet peas. Mr. Francis G. Hussey was the best man.

The wedding ceremony was attended by a throng of relatives and friends. Miss Agnes Lavery, soloist, sang, "O Promise Me," in addition to the rest of the musical program.

Following a luncheon was served at the bride's home with Misses Elbertha Natello, Kathryn Hungertord, Helen Hungville and Winifred O'Brien as attendants. The house was tastefully decorated in a color scheme of pink and white. The bride presented the bridesmaid and soloist with gold pens; the luncheon attendants received gold lingerie pins.

The happy couple left on the evening train for Buffalo. They will spend some time at Nantasket Beach and other points, and later reside in Cambridge.

Miss Hungville attended Syracuse University for a number of years, while Mr. Hillery was educated at Saint Anselm's College, at Manchester, N. H.

Soil Testing By State Colleges

Soil Testing Laboratory for Determining Lime Hunger of Soils. Lime Spreader Distributing Amount of Lime Prescribed By Soil Test.

THE Experiment Station of the Maryland University, at College Park, is now engaged in a vigorous campaign for study of the lime requirements of the soils of the farms of this State—a kind of farming that the farmers themselves cannot do. A number of the other State colleges of agriculture are giving this same service in the testing of soils, which enables the farmer to understand to what extent his soil is sour, and how much lime it takes to neutralize the harmful acids which affect so unfavorably the growth of many plants.

There are mysteries on the farm to which the farmer has never known. Actually he is working with elements about which he knows but little. There are three essential plant foods, the names of which are very familiar, but which he has never seen, heard, smelled or felt. He knows that lime is an essential element for some soils and under some conditions, but here again he is confronted with the problems of discovering the needs of his own particular farm. It is farming of this kind which the farmer cannot do. Although he realizes the importance of accurate knowledge on just such subjects as these, and understands how to make the application of such information practical, he also realizes that for farming of this kind he must depend on the expert services of the State university.

Consequently it is to the scientist that the farmer turns for his knowledge of soil fertility. He must understand what acidity means and must have knowledge of the proper methods of counteracting it. He must realize that with an acid condition of the soil it is impossible for him to secure the complete benefits from the use of commercial fertilizer or manure. If he discovers that lime is essential on his farm, he must be informed of the proper quantity necessary so that no waste shall result from over application, and of the beneficial results to be expected by applying too little.

The Soil Department of the Maryland Institution is encouraging every farmer in the State to send samples of soil for analysis. This is done free of charge and a report sent to each farmer indicating the amount of lime required on the fields represented by the samples.

"COINCIDENCE" THE FEATURE

AT STAR THEATER

A live, snappy production is "Coincidence, with an all-star cast topped by Robert Harron and Jane Walker. The other characters are Bradley Barker, William Frederic, Frank Belcher, and June Terry.

The story is as follows: Billy Jenks comes to New York to storm the fortresses of fortune. He gets a job counting not his own, but other people's money in the cashier's cage of a Fifth Avenue department store. One day a bill blows out of the window into the hat of a pretty girl passing by. In a jiffy, both Billy and Phoebe Howard are head over heels in love.

But their meetings impair their business efficiency while polking their day dreaming faculties. Out they are thrown, jobless and penniless. Billy registers his mental state the next morning by hurling his alarm clock out of the window; it falls, not painlessly, on the head of a clerk seeking to tell Billy that his aunt has died and left him a fortune. Soon he is minus money and girl. How this happens, through a series of harum-scarum, thrilling events, makes this story brimful of adventure and romance.

The cards were sent out so as to be received simultaneously with the stork's visit.

"Richard" arrived.

CAR AND AUTO COLLIDE

TWO INJURED

Bradford, May 29.—An automobile driven by a Mr. Siple, whose home is in Rochester, N. Y., was badly smashed up by a traction car at 3:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the two collided on the East Main street hill in front of the building formerly occupied by George Weaver as a livery.

Mr. Siple was going to the home of Jesse W. Alton of No. 376 Congress street, a relative of Mrs. Siple.

While descending the hill on East Main street he saw the trolley car approaching and there were four cars parked along side of the road. He tried to pass these cars before the trolley car reached him, as there was not sufficient room between the parked cars and the car tracks for him to pass. He was unable to cover the distance in time to escape the traction car. He had reached a point opposite the last automobile when the traction car bumped into the auto with a crash.

The left side of the machine was smashed to pieces, both wheels torn off, the top smashed and the machine almost wrecked.

The two children were uninjured, but Mrs. Siple had one of her arms slightly hurt, and Mr. Siple was scratched on the face and his side slightly injured, but none of the injuries received by the occupants of the car are of serious nature.

NEW SCHOOL LAWS HERE

County Superintendent Lillibridge Receives New Rules Effective Here

A digest of the new school laws passed by the 1921 Legislature has been sent to County Superintendent of Schools, Prof. C. W. Lillibridge.

The Woodruff Law is now supplemented by the Edmonds Law, establishing new minimum salaries, new qualifications for teachers, and a new basis for the apportionment of the State appropriation. It also extends the maximum school tax rate to 35 mills in all districts in McKean county, which are fourth class.

The minimum monthly salary requirements are as follows:

	Elementary	High School
College permanent	$100	$130
College provisional	100	130
Normal school diploma	100	130
Normal school certificate	100	130
Special permanents	100	130
Special	100	130
Permanent state	100	130
Professional	85	95
Provisional	75	75

Boards of school directors must investigate the teacher's credentials before a contract is made. The certificate which a teacher holds not only determines her minimum salary, but also the appropriation which the district is to receive for that teacher.

When a school is permanently closed or discontinued in a fourth class district, the district is entitled to a State appropriation of $200 per annum for each school closed. This provision of the law applies to all schools permanently closed since July 1, 1911.

The following appropriations are to be paid as usual: Appropriation for maintaining vocational schools or vocational departments.

Transportation to consolidated schools, or from schools that were closed on account of term attendance being ten or less. Appropriation to school districts where special classes for mentally deficient children are maintained.

Since it has been customary to pay the State appropriations after the close of the school year, the school districts can anticipate during the school year 1921-1922, the following appropriations:

General appropriation due July 1, 1921. This is based on the number of teachers employed and the number of children enrolled for the school year 1920-1921. This appropriation is usually paid in the fall.

The second half of the Woodruff salary appropriation for the school year 1920-1921. It is anticipated that all the smaller districts will be paid in full on this account before July 1, 1921.

The high school appropriation for the school year 1920-1921.

The vocational appropriation for the school year 1920-1921.

The appropriation for transportation for the school year 1920-1921.

The first half of the appropriation on the Edmonds Act as explained above for the school year 1921-1922.

While the appropriation under the Edmonds Act is not based on the number of children enumerated, yet the law requiring the enumeration of school children is still in force. The census must be taken and reported as usual.

By September 1, 1927, boards of directors will be required to employ teachers who possess one or another form of State permanent. To avoid embarrassment in obtaining such teachers it is essential that boards employ as many such qualified teachers next year as may be possible and each year thereafter until the schools are supplied with such teachers.

Accused of Dynamiting Fish

Insufficient Evidence Causes Justice Gleason to Release Them on Costs

Charged with dynamiting the waters of Willow Creek, near Bradford, on April 2, for the purpose of killing fish, three men were hauled before Justice of the Peace R. C. Gleason on Saturday afternoon.

They were accused by Carl Benson, assistant game warden. They gave their names as Ralph Dieter, Fred Dieter, and Harold Powell, all of or near Bradford. A warrant had been issued for a fourth whose name is said to be Clyde Hinton, but who was not apprehended.

Owing to the lack of sufficient evidence, the justice arranged to release the three men on a payment of $40.67 cost.

It is said that dead fish were found floating in the creek but the witnesses were uncertain as to who had done the dynamiting.

John Melvin, of Bradford, was attorney for the defendants; G. B. Mayo, appeared for the prosecution.

Boy's Disappearance and Brutal Assault Creates a Mystery

Kane, May 27.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance of Richard Keene, 17, of Morrisons, who drove to Kane Saturday, May 21 and after putting his horse in a livery barn went for lunch and has not been seen or heard from since.

A Frenchman by the name of Hantoon, is suspected of being implicated in the boy's disappearance. This theory is given considerable weight through the fact that Hantoon was seen riding to Kane with the lad. Coupled with the story of the boy's disappearance is the story of a brutal holdup staged by Hantoon yesterday.

According to advices received here Hantoon is accused of having held up a woodsman who was working alone in the woods near Morrisons on the Kinzua. It is said Hantoon beat the man over the head with a club and escaped with $180. The woodsman laid unconscious for some time and when he came to immediately went to camp and reported the holdup.

Dr. Platt, of Kinzua, was then called to dress the man's injuries, which were about the head in the nature of several severe lacerations of the scalp. The victim tells of putting up a great battle and during the scuffle tore the mask from his assailant's face and says he recognized him as Hantoon, who is described as being dark, five feet four inches tall, with black curly hair. He has worked in the woods in the vicinity of Morrisons for more than a year and was known by the woodsman whom he held up and robbed.

The disappearance of young Keene is believed to have been brought about by Hantoon with whom he was seen riding while on the way to Kane. John Keene, father of the boy, who is a boss for the Central Pennsylvania Lumber Company at Morrisons, where a wood road is being made to connect with the ePasy, sent Richard to Kane. The young man drove a team hitched to a buggy and left home at 10 o'clock arriving here at noon. His errands here were to consist of the purchase of some gasoline and the filling of an application for an automobile license. He had $55 of his own money and $45 given to him by his father. Upon arriving in Kane he drove into Nelson's livery barn and gave instructions for them to feed the horses, remarking that he would be back after he got lunch. He did not return to the barn.

When he did not return home in the evening the father became worried and hitched up a team and with another son drove to Kane to learn the cause of Richard's tardiness. Inquiries at the livery disclosed the fact that the boy had not been seen there since putting the horses in. A search of the city was made but the lad could not be located. The father and son took the team and buggy he had left home with them. They exhausted every effort to find some trace of the lad but in vain and fears are being entertained that he has met with foul play.

SENATE MAKE STEPS TO- WARD NAVAL DEPARTMENT

President Requested to Invite Great Britain and Japan to Conference. Washington, May 25.—Unanimous Senate approval was given today to Senator Borah's proposal for an international naval disarmament conference.

By a vote of 74 to 0, the Idaho Senator's amendment to the naval appropriation bill, authorizing and requesting the President to invite the governments of Great Britain and Japan to send representatives to a conference with representatives of the United States in an effort to reach some agreement on disarmament, was passed.

The vote was in conformity with the understanding reached last week by administration forces to give their support to Senator Borah's plan. Besides the forty-six Republicans and twenty-eight Democrats voting for the amendment, announcements were made on behalf of many absentees that they, too, favored the disarmament plan.

Most people haven't a good breakfast until they have had a cup of good coffee. Heart's Delight touches the spot. It costs only a trifle more than inferior coffee, and the satisfaction is worth it. Try Heart's Delight and be convinced.

AIR TRIPS SOON OPEN TO SMETHPORT PEOPLE

Kane Aviators to Visit Upper State Towns and Solicit Passengers

Kane, Pa., May 26.—A company of men calling themselves the Kane Aero Club have purchased an airplane for the purpose of giving flights here and in nearby cities this summer. Jay C. Evans went to New York last week and placed the order and the machine is now being assembled and will be ready to leave the factory within ten days. Mr. Evans will fly the plane from New York to Kane. He will be accompanied by Charles "Chuck" McDade, former mechanic in the air service.

They have chosen as their landing field the old ball grounds near the sash and blind factory, a location well adapted to the purpose. It is understood that a goodly number of Kane citizens have already signified their intentions of taking flights.

The plane is a Canadian Curtis and is considered one of the safest on the market. The make was popular with the air forces during the war for the training of pilots. It has a 90-horsepower motor, eight cylinders, and is made for the pilot and one passenger.

JUDGE BOUTON'S DECISION PLEASES BRADFORD OFFICIALS

Jurist Says Garbage of Certain Kinds Can Be Placed on Dumping Grounds

Bradford, May 26.—The municipality retains use of a dumping ground, as the result of a decision handed down shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Judge Joseph W. Bouton who had come to Bradford to hold a hearing on the injunction proceedings brought by Otto Koch, J. Russell Case and C. C. Rhoades.

Judge Bouton's decision was in the form of an order enjoining the city from using the lot for dumping garbage other than wood and paper, to be burned; sterilized tin cans, metals, crockery, glass, pottery and other non-combustible material. The city acquired the lot for the specific purpose of dumping thereon the varieties of rubbish permitted by this order, and prior to the recent temporary injunction had used the lot for precisely that purpose.

Accordingly, the injunction means that the city may resume its operations on the Freeman lot, but is restrained from dumping thereon table garbage and other animal refuse.

CAPTURED CUB BEAR

Hamilin Wilson, game protector for Forest County, has in his possession in Tionesta, a month-old cub bear which was captured last Wednesday in the streets of Mayburg, Pa., by the 12-year-old son of Clifford Babb. The lad found the cub wandering about the streets near the pump station and carried it home in his arms under the impression that he had found a puppy dog. It being the closed season for bear, the game protector was notified, who went up the next day and took possession of the animal. Mr. Wilson is awaiting instructions from the State Game Commission as to what disposition he shall make of the bear. It is supposed the little cub became separated from its mother and was driven to civilization by the big forest fires which raged in that vicinity all day Wednesday. Although a lively and healthy specimen the cub is as playful as a puppy dog and many of the children of the town are delighted with the recollection of having held in their arms a real live Teddy bear.

TAKES CHLOROFORM; THEN LIES IN ROAD AT MIDNIGHT

Custer City Woman Attempts Suicide, But is Now Recovering at Bradford

Bradford, May 27.—Miss Maria Dawley, of Custer City, who is a patient at the Bradford Hospital as a result of taking chloroform yesterday forenoon, is out of danger. The police have learned that Miss Dawley was found lying alongside of the road at South Bradford, after midnight, on Thursday morning, by three Bradford men, who claimed they were in that neighborhood to get gasoline. They report that Miss Dawley was lying on the ground, with her head on her suitcase and when they stopped to investigate were told by her that she was tired. They took the young woman with them in their car to the gasoline plant and then brought her to Bradford, where at 2 o'clock yesterday morning they took her to the Day State hotel, where she registered and took a room.

While the party was alighting from the car in front of the hotel, Officer Kehoe saw the proceedings and watched the parties. One of the men asked the patrolman if he was "getting his eye full" and the officer replied that he had a right to watch them. The two argued and the result was that the offender was arrested and placed in the lockup.

Various reasons have been advanced to the police for Miss Dawley's attempt at suicide, but none have been verified.

LITTLE GIRL DIES IN TEACHER'S ARMS

Carrie Reedy, 12 years old, fatally Stricken in Schoolroom

Carrie Belle Reedy, 12 years old, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the Second Ward school in which she was a pupil. The little girl was stricken without warning, and passed away in her teacher's arms, before medical aid could arrive. The cause of death has not been definitely ascertained, but is believed to have been heart trouble.

The child's death occurred about 3 o'clock. She had left the fourth grade room momentarily, and upon her return cried out that she was fainting. Miss Mary Downs, teacher, ran to the little girl, caught her in her arms and carried her into the teachers' rest room. The child's death followed almost immediately. Dr. Wade Paton, who had been summoned, found that life was extinct when he arrived. The physician was unable at that time to diagnose the cause of death.

The body was removed to Still's undertaking establishment and Coroner S. D. Heffner notified.

SELF-SACRIFICE IN BRADFORD TO HELP THE CHINESE

Money Being Raised by Denial

Bradford, May 28.—Voluntary self sacrifice is the method presented to Bradford residents from now until June 5 as a means of providing some slight measure of relief for at least some of the famished millions who are facing death in China. Although the Chinese government itself and other countries have taken care of millions affected by the famine, yet in five great provinces in northern China—Chih, Shensi, Shansi, Honan and Shantung, five million people are still destitute, as America provides money.

Not only has the Chamber of Commerce of the United States officially endorsed the movement, but sympathy and sanction of the efforts toward relief has been given by the American Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., all Protestant and Catholic churches, the Rockefeller Institute, the International Banking Corporation and other institutions. President Harding has issued an appeal to Americans everywhere to offer their help.

The solution for the problem is simple although the distance is great. Send what you spend in one day to China and save a life. Already the school children of this city have started the self sacrifice movement. Superintendent J. F. Butlerworth is co-operating to the fullest extent. The children's envelopes are to be returned to the schools at the end of next week.

Children, however, cannot shoulder the burden. The appeal is made to every man, woman and child in Bradford to do whatever lies in his power to alleviate the awful suffering. The disaster is so appalling, and the need so urgent that Americans should consider it a solemn duty and a responsibility.

Not Only 1922 Prices but the finest Marmon 34

The $3985 Marmon—formerly $5000—still maintains its remarkable supremacy in comparative demonstrations, as we gladly prove.

It still retains that coveted position. Nothing but its price is changed. The $3985 Marmon 34 is the identical $5000 car, completely equipped.

While the 20% saving is the main appeal at present, remember that the Marmon 34 continues to hold its unique position in the engineering world as the sponsor of Advanced Engineering and Stabilized Design.

No man can afford now to buy according to old favorites. The new Marmon 34 price has upset all standards.

It brings new values into discussion. Never has such a fine car been obtainable at such a low price.

THE CARNIVAL

Success, beyond terms of mere dollars and cents—of lasting moral benefit to all who joined wholeheartedly in the genial spirit that presided at the American Legion Carnival, belongs once more to Bucktail Post.

It was a grand event, staged throughout in excellent taste. To Mrs. Wells and her aides, who so ably took charge of the details, as well as the members of the post themselves, goes the glory of achievement.

The funds that were netted, everyone may be sure, will be used to a purpose which will materially benefit Smethport and lend additional dignity to the annals of the Bucktail Post.

If Senator Branner, of Maryland, shakes up the Russians like he has done the Democrats of his home State, Russia ought to be a pretty decent place to live in by the time he gets through.

EDWARD DOUGLAS WHITE

Following closely in death his friend and fellow churchman, Cardinal Gibbons, a great soul and mind has passed beyond the portal eternity to his well-earned reward in the death of Chief Justice Edward Douglas White.

This great American Catholic, to whom religious or political lines meant nothing in his spirit of charity and goodness toward his fellowman, passed away amid the sights of rich and poor of this and other lands, all realizing that a friend of humanity had gone.

His works are no secret—everyone knows the richness of his record. Appointed chief justice by Presidents of both Republican and Democrat beliefs, he was a true American nobleman of broad ideals.

If "Ma" Bergdall has her property confiscated by the government and keeps on paying fines, she'll have to get her son Grover to come back and dig around for another "pot of gold."

WE SHOULD JOIN NOT LEAD, IN NAVAL DISARMAMENT

The United States should be ready to join, but not to lead, the world in the "scrapping" of naval armament.

The United States has a smaller army than any other world power. As compared with the military forces maintained by Japan, England, France and Italy our army is inconsequential. This is as it should be, and as it may well be, provided only that we maintain a naval and coast defense force sufficient to make successful invasion of our shores impossible.

Our best defenses against foreign aggression are the two oceans. If we can prevent an enemy from crossing either of these we may feel insured against successful attack. But to make it impossible for an enemy to strike at us across the Atlantic or Pacific a navy equal to any other in the world is necessary.

Why should not the United States have a navy equal to any other? This is the richest nation in the world. We have more to protect than any other nation. We have a longer domestic coast line than any other nation in the world. Under the Monroe Doctrine we have no only a nation, but a hemisphere to guard. The last war proved anew that this is the one powerful nation that does not aspire to possess the territory of other nations. If America had imperialistic ambitions, they would have been expressed at the Paris conference. There was not the slightest demand in this country for territorial acquisitions as the result of a war which stripped defeated adversaries of hundreds of thousands of square miles of territory. If any one nation is to have the most powerful navy, for the world's safety, for the world's peace, it should be this republic.

So long as other nations are building navies, so long as any other nation has a larger navy than our own, so long will American naval construction, in the absence of mutual agreement to disarm, be a measure contributing to peace and not to war. No one dreams that should we build a navy we will use it wage any aggression.

The expense of naval construction is great. The expense of failure to be prepared should war come would be far greater, even if adequate defense could be improvised. The construction of a battleship is a work of years. A navy cannot be created to meet an emergency. The emergency must be anticipated, and the man who is able to stand up today and say with confidence that such an emergency may not arise, chooses to be blind and deaf to the teachings of recent history. —[Nation Republican.]

Several ministers were felled out of money by a demure little maiden who poured a pitiful tale into their ears. Well, worse things than that could happen to a minister.

HARVEY'S SPEECH HAS DRAWN HOSTILE FIRE

Ambassador Harvey's London speech has drawn the fire of American critics. We had anticipated that it would. When he proclaimed that the United States entered the war for no motive under the sun than its own preservation he was speaking not for the great throbbing heart of America but for himself.

He wanted his hearers to understand once and for all that we had no interest in rescuing humanity "from all kinds of menacing perils." He deliberately and wickedly misrepresented his country.

It is true that the official declaration of war was based on the crimes committed by German submarines against American people, but it was the cause of humanity and civilization at large that was championed in the speeches made in Congress and elaborated by the utterances of the President. It was the aversion of Germany and her fearful barbarism that aroused the public opinion. We went into the war from no selfish motive whatever, no matter what Mr. Harvey may say to the contrary. We sent our men to France to help save France and England and all Europe from devastation, as well as to resent insult to ourselves. Mr. Harvey has placed the United States in a wrong attitude. No wonder his words are hotly resented. —[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

Philadelphia officials have discovered signs of corruption in the Police Department. But didn't take them a long time?

TRYING THE WAR CRIMINALS

Those who recall the tales of the German prison camps, to the truth of which Ambassador Gerard and other witnesses bore ample testimony, will be glad that something like justice may be meted out to the responsible persons. The trial at Leipzig of the sergeant who was in command at one of the camps has resulted in conviction. It is said that the methods of court procedure amazed the British counsel; the prisoner was allowed singular liberties of speech. Nevertheless, his evidence was self-condemning. He admitted his brutality.

In carrying out the terms of the armistice, by proceeding with these trials, the German Government does more than demonstrate good faith. It makes a repetition of the inhumanities of prisoners of war less likely.

For the cruelties which are committed in actual warfare there may sometimes be a shadow of excuse. But to torture the hopeless in cold blood is beyond forgiveness. None of the other participants in war simulated the example of Germany in this respect. There is great need that the nature of their offending should be brought home to the German people. —[Philadelphia Inquirer.]

Concealment or Open Ventilation?

Could we not do much more than we do to make the broad issues of various current questions plain and accessible to our students in the college stage?

For example, there is a vast discussion afoot upon the questions that center upon property—its rights and its limitations. There is a great literature of collectivist socialism and guild socialism and communism. About these things our young people must know. They are very urgent questions; our sons and daughters will have to begin to deal with them from the moment they leave college. Upon them they must form working opinions, and they must know not only what they themselves believe but, if our public affairs are not to degenerate in the squalid, obstinate, hopeless conflicts of prejudiced adherents, they must know also what is believed by other people whose convictions are different from theirs.

You may want to hush these matters up. Many elderly people do. You will fail.

All our intelligent students will insist upon learning what they can of these discussions and forming opinions for themselves. And if their college will not give them the representative books, a fair statement of the facts and views, and some guidance through the maze of these questions, it means merely that they will get a few books in a defiant or underhand way and form one-sided and impassioned opinions.

But it seems to me that with adolescence comes the right to knowledge and the right of judgment, and that it is the task and duty of the college to give matters of opinion in the solid—to let the student walk round and see them from every side. H. G. Wells, Saturday Evening Post.

OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT NOW A REAL SUCCESS

In the early days printers said that the typesetting machines were not practical; the horse-breeder said that the automobile would never be a success; the wire manufacturers said that "wireless" was a dream; and Congressmen said that the flying machines were impossible.

Some here at home said that Smethport Fire Department should be disbanded, that the organization was a dead one. All those sayings have been discarded into the scrap heap, for all the things mentioned are wonderful successes. Even the fire department has come back; "cannot be done" is now hurled along with Bergdall's pot of gold—nothing but a dream.

For the first time in several years the Smethport Fire Department is now reorganized up to full strength. 80 members on the active list and all in good financial standing. A great record for the department. There is not at the present time room for another name on the rolls. The officers and a number of members have been quietly conducting a campaign for membership and have succeeded in bringing the organization up to full strength—some of the very best citizens of the town have given in their names or membership. Perfect peace and harmony reigns supreme within the organization, every thing about the hose parlors is in fine condition, and every member seems to take pride in keeping things in order. The officers and active members extended an invitation to all the old-time members to drop in and look us over. The next regular meeting will be Thursday evening at 8 p.m.; at which time a number of applications will be presented for membership.

"Cannot be done" certainly has been done, and Smethport will have in the future as in the past a real up-to-date fire fighting organization, one that the citizens can boast of as one of the best in Pennsylvania. —A FIREMAN.

Selected VersesTHE DREAMER OF DREAMS

Oh, the world does not care for the dreamer of dreams
Till the dreamer of dreams is dead;
And, then, when the people have gone
for years
Down the road where the dreamer led,

They pause in their rush for a day or so,
And build a huge pile of stone
To mark the place where the dreamer rests—
The dreamer who dreamed alone.

Oh, the world has ever been hard and cold
To the dreamer of dreams, I know;
It's as hard today and as cold today
As it was in the long ago;

For the world in its ceaseless search for wealth,
In the hurry of life today,
Asks only this of the dreamer of dreams:
Will the dreams you are dreaming pay?

But all the things in the world worth while
Were once some dreamer's dream;
A dream in which the dreamer caught
From a better land a gleam:
So Washington dreamed of a mighty state,
Of a nation that was to be;

And Lincoln dreamed of a glorious
When the slave should at last be free.
So, if perchance you're a dreamer of
dreams,
It's a lonesome man you will be;
For the dreamer is far ahead of the crowd.

As he sees what they cannot see:
But long years after you're dead and gone,
When the dreams you dreamed come true,
You will have your reward in the hearts of men
And their grateful thought of you.

HELP NEAR EAST RELIEF.

"Wretched, starving children, so emaciated that they have lost almost all semblance of human form, almost dead from exhaustion and under-nourishment, having walked out after little along the inhospitable countryside, battered and giving their bodies no protection against the bitter winter weather: these are the most tragic, horrible sights that most men when we first went to the Caucasus.

It is thus that a worker of the Near East Relief sums up the situation that existed when America first began its task in Armenia. One worker who served in Alexandropol declared that when she arrived in the city, the streets were covered with mud, in which the sick and the starving laid down to die, too worn and listless and discouraged to care whether anyone walked over them or not.

There will be a dance at Galeo Park on Wednesday evening, June 1st, in connection with the fund-raising for the Near East Relief. Tickets $1.00. Doors open at 8 o'clock. ad22w1

HAPPENINGS in the BIG CITIES

Where Striking Miners Dwell in Tents

WILLIAMSON, W. VA.—Life in the striking miners' tent colony, along Tug river, is interesting to the visitor. When the miners in the Mingo county field struck last July to enforce their demand for recognition of the union, many of them left the coal company houses they occupied, in some instances substantial brick cottages with electric lights, and went to live in tents provided by the union. There the most of them have remained, with their wives and families.

A typical tent colony is that known as Lick Creek. There are 21 tents, sheltering approximately 100 persons. Martin Justice, a striking miner, presides over its destinies as "president," having been elected to that office by the colonists after he had been selected by the union to supervise the distribution of strike benefits and supplies. With him are some 50 men and women and about as many children.

The striking miners bustled themselves during the summer months with their families, but this winter they are seeking such work as they can find, other than work in the nonunion mines.

The women occupy their time with their household duties and with looking after the children and chickens. The children have nothing to do but play, as no provision for schools has been made for them.

"With the flooring in the tents we are well fixed for the winter," said "President" Martin, a native of Mingo county. "Perhaps a hundred folks have moved away, the men to work in unionized fields and taking their families with them. But we have had only two men go into nonunion mines. We'll stick."

Miners and their families in the eight tent colonies in the district receive support from the United Mine Workers. Each man is allowed $5 a week; each woman $2 and each child $1. Clothing also is supplied, as is fuel.

BUILDING MANY NEW TRAILS

To Assist in Construction of Highways—Federal Fund of $64,533,019 Has Been Approved.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Between 9,000 and 10,000 miles of the marked trails which now crisscross the country from east to west and north to south are to be constructed by federal aid. This amount is composed of 855 projects, which form links in one of the other of the 24 marked trails which have been laid out by private associations.

Every automobilist is familiar with the Dixie highway, the Mohawk trail, the Roosevelt highway, and a score of other marked trails, which are so well built and maintained that driving on them is a joy and comfort. To assist in building these highways a federal fund of $64,533,019 has been approved by the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture up to September 30, 1920.

These trails do not constitute an entirely satisfactory system of transcontinental roads, as officials of the department say their selection in many cases has been influenced too much by such factors as pre-existing conditions, promise of improvement by local communities, pressure of selfish influence, and a desire to touch points of scenic and historical interest.

The extent to which federal aid has been applied to the trails varies in the different states. Naturally the Western states are using much more of their federal appropriations in developing roads of this character than the Eastern states. This is due to the fact that the trails in the Eastern states had already been improved to a large extent before the roads were selected by the pathfinders. This was not true in the West, where long stretches of the selected roads were still in an unimproved condition when they were designated.

Nevada leads in its use of federal funds on roads of this character.

A Trail Through the Mountains in Nevada.

Eighty-three per cent of its entire mileage of approved federal-aid roads lies on one or the other of the trails which cross the state. On these roads Nevada will spend 90 per cent of the federal money which has been granted to her.

DRIVERS CAN ASSIST ROADS

In Going Up Hill, Particularly One Paved With Concrete, Right Side Is Favored.

"Drivers can do as much, almost, for the maintenance of good roads as highway engineers," declares Alfred P. Masury.

"Did you ever notice," asked Mr. Masury, "in going up a hill, particularly one paved with asphaltic concrete, that the surface on the right-hand side of the road is wavy and rough, while that on the left-hand side is smooth?"

"Well, the reason is this: The extra traction required to climb the hill wears and tears the surface, while there is little or no traction down hill. "Another thing, the right-hand track of the road in either direction is the one which is worn most. This is because of the arched surface of the road which throws the greater weight and strain on the right-hand side of the vehicle and consequently the right-hand side of the roadway. Truck builders and wagon makers have even adjusted their axles and springs so as to withstand the greater strain on the right-hand side of the vehicle.

Prices Must Decrease.
Road materials must go down in price or the hard road building program will be discontinued, according to Gov. Len Small of Illinois.

Roads Cause Loss.
Bad roads keep you from marketing your products when the market is right.

Heavy Trucks Restricted.
Motor trucks heavier than three tons are restricted from travel on first-class roads in British Malaya.

BOY FAINTS IN CHURCH

An attack of faintness, believed due to the heat, overcame Edwin Hungerford, young son of Michael Hungerford, near the close of the morning services at Saint Elizabeth's Catholic Church last Sunday.

The boy was carried out, and laid upon the lawn, where he revived after a short time. He was taken home in an automobile, and has now completely recovered.

Tragedy in Buffalo When Officer

Tries to Quell Disturbance

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23.—Crazed with drink, a negro pulled a gun on two policemen who came to quell a disturbance at his home at 235 Clinton street, shortly before midnight last night.

He murdered Sergeant of Police

Reserves Edward A. Wilson, 35 years old by shooting him above the heart and through the month. Then with several wild shots the black inflicted wounds on four negroes living at the house. His wife, two other women and one man were hit. Two of the women are at the Emergency Hospital, where it is expected they will die.

DEER SEEN NEAR ELDRED

Eldred, May 25.—While Mr. and Mrs. O. Bell were driving in their auto to church, below the school located near the new cinder road, about two miles north of Eldred Borough, Mr. Bell saw ahead of him, alongside of the road, a fine young doe. It appeared unconcerned about trespassing on the public highway, and not until the car got quite close did it dash away into the woods. This is an unusual incident, although a deer was seen at the head of Esfren brook about a year ago. There is good range for deer on the hills in this vicinity and it is possible that the hunting days about which the old settlers tell, may come back again.

known anthem, and the old man was delighted at the success of his suggestion.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address was read by E. C. Potter in an impressive way that brought out the full meaning and richness of that notable manuscript.

The male chorus, led by Dr. McCoy, and consisting of William Brownell, Albert Johnson, Fred Hallstrom, Archie Malcolm, Prof. Stanley Bright, and Paul Hallstrom, sang "Firmly Stand."

Capt. Sharpe's address followed. After another band selection, services at Keith Pratt's grave were begun. The American Legion ritual was included, three volleys fired over the grave, taps blown by Bugler Alfred Bush. While the male chorus sang "Cover Them With Flowers," members of the post covered the mound with blooms of all kinds. Later the Civil War veterans' graves were decorated.

Benediction by Rev. Van Dyke concluded the exercises.

The noticeable absence of poppies in Smethport on May 30 was not due to any neglect of the Bucktail Post. The post sent for the poppies in sufficient time to the State Department headquarters at Philadelphia, but they failed to arrive.

BASEBALL

The Decoration Day game with Butler was a bit wild and drawn out and ended in favor of the locals 11 to 8. Nagle, Smethport's new pitcher, had his opponents eating out of his hand, but retired in the seventh with the game on ice as he was troubled with a sore arm.

The score of the Decoration Day game was:

Smethport, 11; Butler, 8.

Hard hitting and poor fielding were the outstanding points of the contest.

Butler collected 10 safeties off of Nagle and Potter, while the locals banged McDermott for 15 minutes. Nagle kept his hits well scattered, however, and his opponents did but little toward swelling the run column. Butler made a show of fight in the eighth frame when they managed to hit Potter safely a couple of times, but their rally fell short by three big runs. In the ninth inning, Potter gave Butler's chances an awful war-tail, when after making an error himself he fanned the next three men successively.

This was the first game that Nagle started since coming with the town team, and he lived up to his reputation in great style. His "splitter" zipped over the pan with a twist that the guests simply couldn't see.

Smethport probably would have won two baseball games in as many days, if the rain had not interfered last Sunday in the contest with Shinglehouse, just after the locals had found themselves and tied the score in the fifth inning.

The result of the Sunday game was:

Shinglehouse, 5; Smethport, 5.

R. Hall for the locals, began serving them up to the Shinglehouse team, and they seemed to take to his offerings real kindly. Pretty soon the score stood 3 to 0 with Smethport on the whitewashed side.

Gallagher then got hold of one of Ahl's shoots and slammed it to deep left field for a home run.

Then the next inning as it started to rain faster, the locals managed to tie the score after a couple of base on balls by Ahl, a hit, and an error or so.

Soaking wet, the umpire called the game. The Smethport management hopes to arrange another game with Shinglehouse to play off the tie.

Reports from Jack Dempsey's training camp are to the effect that his sparring partners are being pretty badly battered up. Jack always was rough that way.

opportunity for any revenue outside of the Borough of Smethport. With a transmission line passing through Eldred and some of the smaller places en route to Smethport, there is always the opportunity to take on another customer, with very little outlay of equipment. One of the biggest advantages of the transmission system lies in the fact that your supply of electricity is backed by a large system and your growth is only limited by the capacity of the system supplying you with power.

We know from past experience that once a plant is in and operating, it will grow in a few years to a point where it is necessary to install additional equipment. In case a gas engine plant is installed, it will be necessary in order to increase the capacity of the plant, to buy and install an additional gas engine unit. Assuming that an additional unit would be 100 KVA capacity or equal to the capacity of each of the initial units, the cost would be approximately $12,000.00. On the other hand, the addition of the same capacity when being supplied by transmission would represent the purchase of one 100 KVA transformer at a cost not exceeding $1,000.00.

The operating costs of each plant are worked out on pages six and seven of the attached data and are based upon certain conditions of operation. The conditions are those that might be expected to obtain under actual operation. It would seem that the operating costs for the gas engine plant are less than those for the transmission system. This, however, is not true, as will be seen from an analysis of the costs. This is also shown in the costs per KW hour, when produced by gas, $0.585 as against $0.453 by transmission.

Considering a gas engine plant your market for electricity will be limited to Smethport only, and will represent a total investment of approximately $60,000.00. For approximately $7,000.00 more you are in a position to extend your market for electricity to a number of other places in the vicinity of Smethport. This means that you can dispose of a greater number of KW hours at a decreased cost per KW hour. This cost will naturally continue to decrease as your output grows.

In making this recommendation, we have given what is in our opinion, the best proposition for the borough of Smethport. You will find upon investigation a large number of places that have found it advantageous to buy power and discontinue operating their own power plants.

Following the reading of the report, committees were appointed to canvass the town to investigate the general feeling as to the electrical question, and urge, if possible, that all vote in favor of it on June 14.
